

ABSTRACT

Disclosed herein are containers for containing pet food. The containers comprise a body which forms a receptacle, pet food maintained within the receptacle, a means for maintaining freshness of said pet food at ambient temperature for storage, a substantially transparent portion of such container which allows at least a part of the pet food to be viewed.